

The ideas were bubbling at the "Fælleden" Tuesday night

Approx. 100 participants were playing the Anebjerg game arranged by the municipality of Skanderborg in cooperation with GBL (The city and landscape group). The arrangement lasted five hours during which the participants played role play and gave concrete ideas to the development of the future Anebjerg.

Experience forest, multi-house costing many millions and residential areas with passive houses. That's just some of the ideas which were presented by the players during the evening. All the ideas are now gathered together and can be seen on www.ideoffensiv.dk within a few days.

From visions to reality

The municipality of Skanderborg has developed the game together with GBL. The purpose of the game is to develop new methods to involve citizens and other parties interested in urban planning.

During the three gaming rounds the players were asked to take a stand on various challenges and scenarios concerning the development of the area and to prioritize the initiatives.

The players have participated with great enthusiasm. We have received a great deal of ideas and these ideas will form the basis of the development of this unique new urban area, says the content project manager Inger Espersen.
